

The genus Syntomoza, a homonymy in Hemiptera and Diptera. A proposal of new taxonomic status and check-list of related bibliography

Género Syntomoza, una homonimia en Hemiptera y Diptera. Nueva propuesta taxonómica y revisión bibliográfica

Enderlein employed the name Syntomoza to describe two separate genera of insects placed in different families and orders, namely Psyllidae (=Aphalaridae), Hemiptera: Sternorrhyncha (ENDERLEIN 1921, p. 115) and Psychodidae, Diptera, Nematocera (ENDERLEIN 1937, p. 88-89). Also, ENDERLEIN (1937, p. 89-90) described the genus Lepidiella (Diptera), which was later synonymized with Syntomoza Enderlein, 1937 by QUATE (1963, p. 187). Following articles 52.1, 52.2 and 23.3.5 of the ICZN, we thus propose the use of the replacement genus name Lepidiella Enderlein, 1937 to include species of Psychodidae (Diptera) formerly belonging to the genus Syntomoza Enderlein, 1937.

On the other hand, Pericoma zumbadoi Quate, 1996 (Diptera, Psychodidae) is moved to the genus Lepidiella, because it is related to the other species formerly placed in Syntomoza Enderlein, 1937, particularly to Lepidiella cervi (Satchell, 1955).

Taxonomic review
